Unlawful Distribution of HIN/SRN

The Company has been informed of unauthorised misuse of shareholder information.

Information known to have been exposed includes shareholder Holder Identification and Security Holder Reference Numbers.

Upon the breaches being reported to the Company, it initiated an investigation directed at determining what other information may have been exposed. The Company has issued the 2 offending parties with cease and desist letters.

In so far as the Company is aware, the breach has not involved the Company's IT system being infiltrated, rather data lawfully acquired while at least one of the parties was retained by the Company but (after ceasing to be retained) then put that data to unauthorised illegal use. The Company will report the breaches to the Office of the Australian Information Commissioner at the conclusion of its investigation.

The Company is progressing this investigation to ensure compliance with its reporting obligations under the compulsory reporting regime contained in the Privacy Act 1988 (Cth).

The Company is in the process of reviewing all company procedures and policies to verify the Privacy Act requirements are being met. A further announcement will be made in respect of the outcome of the Company's investigation.

Regardless of the circumstances, shareholders that suspect any of their confidential details have been disclosed, for any reason, should immediately contact the Company using the contact details below.
