Growthpoint Properties Australia diversifies direct portfolio with $54m retail acquisition

Growthpoint Properties Australia (Growthpoint) has entered into an agreement to acquire the first retail asset in its directly held portfolio. Cammeray Square, an established, convenience-oriented neighbourhood shopping centre is located in Sydney's affluent Lower North Shore suburb of Cammeray and is being acquired for $54.0 million[1] from Fortius Cammeray Trust, a fund managed by Growthpoint.[2]

The acquisition diversifies Growthpoint's direct portfolio, providing exposure to the attractive convenience retail space, and supports its strategy of delivering income-driven returns from directly held high-quality real estate assets.

Growthpoint's Chief Executive Officer and Managing Director, Ross Lees, said, "The Board and management have identified retail as a target sector to grow and over time we intend to allocate further into this sector across both our directly held portfolio and funds management platform.

"The acquisition of Cammeray Square allows us to deploy our existing embedded retail asset management expertise and diversify our direct portfolio, increasing our Securityholders' exposure to this defensive retail asset class."

With 5,055 square metres of gross lettable area and 100% occupancy as at 1 November 2026, Cammeray Square is anchored by Harris Farm Markets and includes 15 convenience-led specialty stores, a medical precinct, childcare centre and gym. Approximately 4.3 kilometres north of the Sydney CBD, the Cammeray catchment area is well-established with limited new competing retail supply expected, providing favourable conditions for income growth. The property is being acquired on a 6.9% initial income yield.

Settlement is expected to occur early calendar year 2027. The acquisition will be funded from existing liquidity and represents a disciplined redeployment of capital following the contracted $267.7 million sale of Growthpoint's Perth Airport distribution centre[3]. The net impact of the two transactions would lower pro forma gearing by approximately 3%.

This announcement was authorised for release by Growthpoint's Board of Directors.
